

What's happening?

This is Silicon Valley's heart: Santa Clara Convention Center, March 4, 2004.

This is the first day of Bush's re-election campaign! It is still not the start of a new civil war. Not yet.

Look closer.

The horses have got used to protesters in Silicon Valley.

Here are the American people, my true friends.

High school kids come too. But, look closer! Their signs are for Bush-Cheney! Whatever the reason they come, it is a good public education for them.

Liberation zone.

You will always see this giant “WMD” in protests.

To enter that building to have a lunch with Bush, you need to donate $1,000-5,000. Only paying tax for these police guards is not enough.

My comrade of Labor Party & San Jose Peace Center.

Another hot issue (for which I don't have answer yet).

Agree. Fully.

She is always in the front: "I think the USA sponsored, enabled, and allowed 9/11 to happen."

His position in history?

Tired? Bush's speech will start at 2:30pm, but she came here from 8am.

Do these barricades really belong to church? I don't even recall the church's name here.

Today, Silicon Valley's commercial center becomes Tiananmen Square.

(Jing Zhao, March 4, 2004, 11 am)