

The “GRAVE-DIGGER” QUAD-BARRELED SHOTGUN for INTO THE SHADOWS RPG

Grave-Digger Mark 1

In a moment of inspiration during a late night shopping session in a closed hardware store, a monster-hunter named “Reggie” came up with a useful weapon design for taking out a small crowd of dangerous opponents. The weapon is composed of two double-barreled shotguns mounted side by side with a single stock and trigger to set off all four barrels at once. In addition, the barrels are each sawed off at an angle of 45°, so that the two right barrels are sawed off at a 90° angle from the two left barrels. This creates a maximum possible arc of fire.

When used with buckshot, the character rolls to hit a visible prime target and blast radius damage is determined in an arc to the right and left of the main target. Depending on spacing the GM may allow radius damage to the front and/or rear of the target as well.
